Skull Fracture

One person was in Berger Hospital with a brain concussion and one in City Jail charged with reckless driving Monday following a four-car accident on High Street near North Court Sunday night at 10 o'clock.

The accident happened, Patrolman Charles Mumaw said, when Charles Edward White, Route 1, Ashville, drove from an alley into High Street without stopping and crashed into the eastbound automobile of Andrew J. Ward, Ashville, overturning the Ward car and knocking it nearly 75 feet.

In the car with Ward was William Arthur, 15, Ashville, who suffered head injuries and was taken to Berger Hospital by City police. The condition Monday was reported as favorable by Berger Hospital attaches.

Patrolman Mumaw said the brakes on White's car were bad. After striking the Ward car, White sideswiped two cars parked on High Street, one belonging to H. S. Beckett, Lockbourne, and one to William Cloud, Ashville. Both the Ward car and the White car were damaged considerably, police reported. The other two cars involved received slight fender damages.

Teacher In Hospital

Three other auto accidents happened in Pickaway County Sunday, one of them sending Margaret Drummond, Chillicothe, a teacher in the Centralia schools, to Berger Hospital with a possible skull fracture, although hospital authorities reported her condition much improved Monday.

The accident happened when Walter Smith, 28, Route 2, Gallipolis, driving north on Route 104, collided with the car of Adam List, Williamsport, who was pulling onto the road from the Dewey Park driveway. Smith's car was overturned in the middle of the road.

JAPS CLAIM UNCLE SAM BETRAYED GREAT BRITAIN

TOKYO, Sept. 30—Charges that the United States "betrayed" Great Britain by provocative incidents which forced Japan into alliance with Germany and Italy were made by the influential newspaper Japan Times today.

Even as a foreign office spokesman suddenly adopted a more conciliatory attitude toward Washington, the Times launched a bitter attack against President Roosevelt's Far Eastern policy.

Atlanta School Classes Halted

Superintendent Canup Takes Action Following
Outbreak Of Paralysis; To Meet Healthier

Leslie Canup, superintendent of Atlanta School, ordered the school closed Monday because of infantile paralysis. It was reported that the superintendent would confer with Health Commissioner A. D. Blackburn before he would consider reopening the school.

Superintendent Canup's actions were prompted by an infantile paralysis case in the school Friday. The victim is Elaine Stoker, 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stoker, of near Atlanta.

The girl became ill September 21 and did not attend school last week. She had received no medical attention until Thursday night when Dr. Blackburn examined her and said that paralysis had appeared in the girl's legs.

The girl's condition was a typical but mild case, Dr. Blackburn said. Elaine is in the seventh grade. Her brother, Billy, 10, in the fifth grade, attended school until the family was placed under quarantine Thursday night.

Two-year-old Gary Eugene Cox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Berlyn Cox, Derby, taken to University Hospital, Columbus, Friday after showing definite symptoms of the disease, is still at the hospital.

CHILLICOTHE, Sept. 30—As schools and public meeting places at nearby Clarksburg were reopened after a two-week shutdown due to a paralysis epidemic, County Health Commissioner Dr. R. E. Bower today quarantined the county's eighth victim, 11-year-old Betty Arledge, of Kings-ton.

The girl was stricken in both the total number of cases reported in serious condition.

COLUMBUS, Sept. 30—The active case load of infantile paralysis today dropped to 70 cases, the lowest since Sept. 16, as only nine new cases were reported to the state health department over the weekend and 15 cases were released from quarantine.

Two new cases were reported from Cuyahoga County, and one each from Butler, Warren, Pickaway, Summit, Fayette and Licking Counties. They bring to '49 the total number of cases reported to date this year.

COLUMBUS, Sept. 30—The active case load of infantile paralysis today dropped to 70 cases, the lowest since Sept. 16, as only nine new cases were reported to the state health department over the weekend and 15 cases were released from quarantine.

GOOD WILL SHIP TOUR OF BRITISH LANDS STUDIED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30—The United States shortly may dispatch a small group of warships to Australia and New Zealand on a "good will" mission, it was reported today in diplomatic quarters.

While neither the navy nor the State department would comment on these reports, it was learned reliably that such a naval mission has been discussed by administration officials.

In view of the United States—Japanese tension over Far Eastern developments the visit of a small number of American warships to Australia and New Zealand even for a "good will" cruise takes on considerable significance.

Recent State Department conversations between American, British and Australian diplomatic representatives have touched on closer Anglo-American collaboration in the Far East to check threatened Japanese expansion southward to the Dutch East Indies and other territories.

FAMOUS CLOWN DIES
YOUNGSTOWN, Sept. 30—The career of Jim Duffy, once a star trick diver and clown with P. T. Barnum's circus and other circuses, was ended in death today. Duffy died of injuries received when a horse drawing a buggy which he used for street advertising bolted and threw him to the street. The body was taken to New Castle, Pa., Duffy's birthplace.

Axis-Japanese Alliance Hits U. S. Interference

"CREATION of new orders" in the Far East and in Europe must not be interfered with by any power not now participating in the European or Sino-Japanese wars, Germany Italy and Japan have warned in their new tri-totalitarian military alliance signed in Berlin. Although the United States was not mentioned by name, the treaty was regarded as a direct warning to the U. S. either to drop present aid to Britain or to enter the war actively. It also hit U. S. interference with Japanese moves in the Orient. As matters now stand, the nations shown in black, above, are aligned actively or inactively against Great Britain; Spain (1) is ready to join the Axis; the Balkans (2) are being forced into the totalitarian lineup, and pressure is being applied to isolated Sweden and Finland (3). On the other side of the world, the threat of British and American interference and the defenses of China and the French and Dutch governments stand between Japan and further aggression.

Columbus Police Chief Thanks Local Officers

Police Chief William McCrady received a letter Monday from Otis C. Kaffits, Columbus police chief, praising the work of the local police and Pickaway County sheriff's department in the capture of Donald Hunter, Columbus bandit, convicted by the Franklin County courts of six armed robberies, one being the Harold Stout service station robbery on South Court Street, April 20. Hunter was captured by Sheriff Charles Radcliff after Circleville police and Pickaway County officers took part in a chase which ended on a road near Tilton.

The letter to Chief McCrady read: "A few days ago Donald Hunter, who was turned over to this department by your county, was sentenced to Ohio Penitentiary for a period of from 60 to 135 years. Counting good behavior, the least number of years he can do is 33. He was convicted on six counts of armed robbery and sentenced to run consecutively.

"At this time, we want to express our appreciation for the splendid cooperation which we received in this case as well as in several other cases. Do not, at any time, hesitate to call on us for any help for which you may need. We feel this man received a sentence which was justifiable."

WARNINGS OF ATLANTIC STORM POSTED IN EAST

NEW YORK, Sept. 30—Storm warnings of a howling nor'easter sweeping up the Atlantic Coast were ordered hoisted today from Cape Hatteras to Sandy Hook by the weather bureau.

The bureau's advisory stated: "Hoist northeast storm warnings 5 a. m. from Cape Hatteras to Sandy Hook, N. J. Moderate disturbance southeast of Cape Hatteras in conjunction with strong high pressure area over North Atlantic states will cause strong northeast winds probably reaching moderate gale force on middle Atlantic Coast next 24 hours."

TRAINING CENTER FOR NYA OKEHD IN ROSS COUNTY

CHILLICOTHE, Sept. 30—Work will start this week on the construction of an NYA youth resident training center on a 20-acre plot of ground located on the Ross County infirmary farm on Route 104 about four miles north of this city.

The county commissioners' offer of the plot was accepted over the week end by state NYA officials and Monday they were to meet with the commissioners and go over the plot so as to locate it exactly and work out other details of a mutual agreement that is to be drawn.

On Wednesday eight carloads of materials for the center will arrive here and several score youth will be employed immediately in unloading work.

The material consists of one-story prefabricated buildings. Fifteen or twenty will be built to house the 300 or more youth to be trained here in various trades and shop processes. It is estimated that the camp will be ready for occupancy by the first of the year.

The acceptance of the local site means that it will not go to Lancaster and Pomeroy, two communities that bid strongly for the project.

TOLEDO HONORS WARNER

TOLEDO, Sept. 30—A public ceremony was scheduled for 6:30 p. m. today in honor of Milo J. Warner, Toledo attorney, who was elected national commander of the American Legion in convention at Boston last week. He will be met by Mayor John Q. Carey, a citizens' delegation and uniformed legion groups.

NAZIS BEGIN TO MOVE CHILDREN

Optional Evacuation Okehd
As British Continue RAF
Raids Over Reich

By Pierre J. Huss
BERLIN, Sept. 30—Germany today set in motion a plan for optional evacuation of children from air-raided areas of the Reich.

Announcement of the plan was made after residents of Berlin once more spent nearly two hours in air raid shelters, although no bombs were dropped on the capital.

The evacuation plan will affect areas in which parents feel the health of children may be injured. It was stressed that the plan is in no way compulsory and leaves the decision up to parents alone.

Those who cannot afford to pay for transfer and maintenance of their children in areas not raided by British planes will be given necessary financial assistance by the Nazi relief organization, it was stated.

To Ease Minds

Authorities said the measure in no way implies necessity for any evacuation, especially from Berlin, but is aimed to ease the mind of parents regarding the welfare of their children.

Authentic German circles declared that rumors of a general evacuation were circulated largely by "well-meaning but over-zealous" air raid precaution workers.

They compared this to a recent incident in which A. R. P. workers ordered everyone to keep their gas masks handy. Such precaution (Continued on Page Two)

BOMB GOVERNED BY RADIO SHOWN BY WARREN MAN

WARREN, Sept. 30—A radio-controlled bomb assuring accuracy in hitting targets was studied today by U. S. Army ordnance engineers following conferences with its inventor, Antonio Pannutti. Experiments with models of these bombs have proved successful, Pannutti said. He explained that with his bomb the observer would release the missile from the bomber and as it traveled earthward he could see whether it was likely to overshoot or fall short of the target and with the radio control after its course for a direct hit.

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE
Great Britain and Germany unleashed heavy new aerial blows at each other today, long-range guns duelled across the Straits of Dover, a Tokyo spokesman dangled an olive branch under the noses of Britain and the United States and Pravda, Moscow's Communist party organ, predicted extension of the European war.

Such was the spreading international tangle today as repercussions of the new Rome-Berlin-Tokyo economic and military agreement still echoed around the world and the United States pushed doggedly ahead with its gigantic preparations for defense.

Pravda went into considerable discussion of the division of sphere of influence outlined in the pact and then commented acridly:

"Whether the signatories succeed in realizing in practice such a division of spheres of influence is a different question."

The editorial, in which Pravda told the world that Russia was kept fully advised by Berlin of Germany's intention to sign the three-power agreement, appeared to have been written under instructions to sit on the fence as much as possible and not climb too far out on a limb.

Neutrality Respected

The newspaper said the reservations in the pact regarding Soviet Russia were believed to show that the three signatories will respect Russia's neutrality. Likewise, said Pravda, the reservations confirm the strength and significance of Moscow's non-aggression pacts with Germany and Italy.

It was said that the Soviet Union's policy of peace and neutrality will be continued.

After anticipating further aggravation and extension of the war as a result of the pact, on grounds that it ends the "separation of the Eastern (Sino-Japanese) and Western Wars," Pravda commented:

"Japan renounces her policy of non-intervention in European affairs and Germany and Italy renounce their policy of non-intervention in Far Eastern affairs . . . ."

"The pact doubtless was stimulated by intensification and extension of military cooperation between Britain and the United States . . . ."

"The pact recognized spheres of influence among the signatories and a division of spheres between them with mutual defense of these spheres."

Pravda added that this "mutual defense" was aimed against any attempts at interference in the first place by Britain and the United States.

Then followed the comment: "Whether the signatories succeed in realizing in practice such a division of spheres of influence is a different question . . . it depends on real cooperation between the belligerents' forces and the progress and issue of the present war, which is becoming more and more acute."

Two new air raid alarms sounded in London during the morning following still another night attack on the British capital and surrounding areas. No bombs were dropped on the city during the daylight attacks, however.

Fire Reported in Calais

At the same time, British long-range guns on the English southeast coast let loose at Calais and were reported to have started a fire at that German-held "invasion port." German "big Berthas" on the French coast replied.

MOSCOW—Russia was kept fully advised by Berlin of Germany's intention to sign a tripartite military alliance with Italy and Japan, Pravda, organ of the central committee of the Communist party, revealed today. Breaking a three-day press silence on the signing of the pact, Pravda stated that the three power agreement constituted an embodiment of relations already formed between the axis and Japan on one hand, and Great Britain and the United States on the other.

LONDON—The Tass (Soviet) news agency issued an unconfirmed report from Bucharest stating that Germany, Italy and France are discussing possible partition of Switzerland, the London Daily Herald said today.

Mrs. Hixon's husband, Elmer, was riding in the rumble seat of the Ford coupe when the car was overturned, but he was thrown clear of the wreck. Mrs. Hixon and her daughter Betty and Miss Drummmond were taken to Berger Hospital by a passing motorist. Mrs. Hixon and her daughter were later released, while Miss Drummmond remained in the hospital for observation.

List told Sheriff Charles Radcliff that he did not see the Smith car when he pulled into the road. His car was not greatly damaged, while Smith's had received a broken left window, fender, left wheel and body damages.

Intersection Crash Scene
Deputy Sheriff Robert Armstrong reported an auto accident at the Route 22 and 104, intersection west of Circleville, Arthur Graham, Charleston, W. Va., traveling south on Route 104, failed to stop as he approached Route 22, crashing into the car of Joseph Johnson, 18, Adelphi, who was going east on Route 22. With Graham was his wife and Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Rollins, Charleston, W. Va., and in the Johnson car were Charles Johnson, father of the driver, Chancey Danner, Adelphi, and Irene Garrison, of Williamsport. No one was injured in the collision.

Another Pickaway County accident occurred on Route 22, eight miles west of Circleville Sunday, when the car of Mrs. Nellie Drake, Deer Creek Township, struck the car of Marie Gerhardt, also of Pickaway County, as the Gerhardt car attempted to make a left turn in front of the Drake car. Occupants of both cars received cuts and bruises. Deputy Armstrong said.

Circleville police reported a minor traffic accident on Scioto Street, Sunday, when a farm truck driven by Jasper Hall, 143 Walnut Street, pulled from the curb into the path of the south-bound auto of Ralph Hoffman, 167 Hayward Avenue. The right front fender of the Hoffman car was damaged, according to Patrolmen Fred Fitzpatrick and George Green.

By International News Service
Week end traffic and railroad crossing accidents claimed at least eight lives in Ohio, according to a survey today.

David O'Brien, 19-year-old recruit in the army air corps and a former star football player at Girard High School, was fatally injured near Girard when he went to sleep and his automobile moved down three rural mail boxes and a sign before crashing through an abandoned gasoline station. The car came to a stop after striking a farmhouse.

John Sinkovich, 46, Youngstown beer garden operator, was killed instantly when his stalled automobile was struck by an Erie-railroad passenger train at Youngstown. Four other men who had been trying to push the car from the railroad tracks jumped to safety.

Robert Bartley, 20, of Aspinwall, Pa., was killed and a companion, Jack W. Phillips, 28, also of Aspinwall was seriously injured when their automobile struck another and then crashed into a utility pole at Akron. The west hill residential section of Akron was plunged into darkness when wires supported by the pole were broken.

Athlete, 19, Victim
Louis Capini, 36, of Lorain, and his daughter, Patsy, were dead as the result of an automobile accident in Sheffield Village, east of Lorain. (Jack Hoffman, 19, of Bettsville, O., a third baseman with the Fremont Green Sox of the Ohio State League, was killed when his car was struck by a train near Fremont.)

John McCafferty, 18, was killed in Cleveland when the six-year-old convertible coupe in which he was riding skidded and overturned as its driver, David Shaw, 19, attempted to avoid a collision with two other automobiles. Shaw was charged with manslaughter.

Injuries received in an accident near Westerville, caused the death of Pearl Maxwell, 28, of Columbus. Two other persons riding the car were injured, one seriously. They were Leroy Estep, 15, who suffered a possible broken back while physicians feared Joseph Pollack, 26, had a fractured skull. Both live in Columbus.

WRITER LINKED WITH FBI AFTER ENDING HIS LIFE

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Despite denials by the Federal Bureau of Investigation that Courtney Riley Cooper, the author, had any official connection with it, two cards issued by Chief G-Man J. Edgar Hoover were reported today to have been found in the writer's pockets following his suicide yesterday.

An FBI agent's identification card and a second card giving Cooper entry into the Washington office of Hoover with whom he had collaborated on articles were reported found by police who searched the author's body.

Cooper's wife, the former Genevieve R. Furey, of Los Angeles, charges the 55-year-old writer and crime investigator hanged himself in a hotel room because the government had ignored his reports on Nazi spy activities in Mexico.

GRAND THEATRE HONORED IN NATIONAL MAGAZINE

The Grand Theatre, managed by Harry Brown, Jr., wins outstanding recognition in the theatre world as a result of its advertising and general promotion campaign. "The Motion Picture Herald," official publication for theatre managers, reveals.

The Grand, a member of the Chakere Theatres organization, is listed with some of the nation's outstanding picture houses in the current issue of the magazine.

Only six other Ohio theatres are recognized in the magazine, they being in Piqua, Warren, Columbus, Cleveland, Dayton and Canton.

WILLKIE WINS FIRST VOTE OF AGED CANTON WOMAN

CANTON, Sept. 30.—Wendell Willkie won another vote today—that of 96-year-old Mrs. Rose Ann McKinney, who never before has voted in an election.

Widow of a former Stark County sheriff, Mrs. McKinney said she always believed in leaving politics to men, but she believes now that the country "needs a change in Washington" so she registered with the election board and will cast her first vote next November.

stated that no British planes reached the Nazi capital. The Germans claimed effective air raids on important British military targets.

Reich officials announced an "optional evacuation" plan for children residing in dangerous air raid areas. It was pointed out that the measure in no way implies the necessity of evacuation, but that the step has only been taken to ease the minds of parents.

London also announced terrific RAF bombing raids during the last 48 hours on targets in the Reich and Nazi held coastal territory, including the big Berthas mounted near Cap Cris Nez.

The Vichy government also stepped back into the war picture with preparations for defense of Madagascar in the Indian Ocean. It was announced that the British had served an ultimatum on the Madagascar governor to repudiate the Vichy government and that the governor had rejected this ultimatum "with scorn."

Japanese newspapers boasted that the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo pact will lead to defeat of President Roosevelt in the American elections in November, but a foreign office spokesman said Japan would never abandon hope of re-adjusting relations with the United States and Great Britain.

In Berlin, Nazi officials contended that the Pravda editorial represented "high official opinion," and was therefore an open endorsement of the tripartite pact.

Minister to Visit Moscow?
Authoritative German quarters did not deny speculative rumors that German Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop would fly to Moscow to seek to draw Russia into the pact.

Meanwhile, a hint reached London through the Athens censorship that unidentified foreign planes may have carried out a bombing attack on Greece.

GEORGE RUSSELL DIES AT 79; SERVICE WEDNESDAY

George Russell, 79, a native of Ross County, died Sunday at 10:25 p. m. at his home, 379 Weldon Avenue. He was born July 22, 1861, a son of Ephraim and Lydia Ray Russell.

Preceded in death by his wife, he is survived by the following children, John, Alonzo, Earl and Floyd Russell and Mrs. Della Manbeavers of Circleville; Mrs. Bertha Darst of Pikeston; Cecil of Lancaster; Ida of Columbus; two brothers, Amos of Clarksburg and William of Pike County; four sisters, Mrs. Ida Grove and Mrs. Mary Alice Allen of Pike County; Mrs. Lottie Hatfield of Richmond Dale, and Mrs. Sarah Ann Downland of Columbus, and 39 grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren.

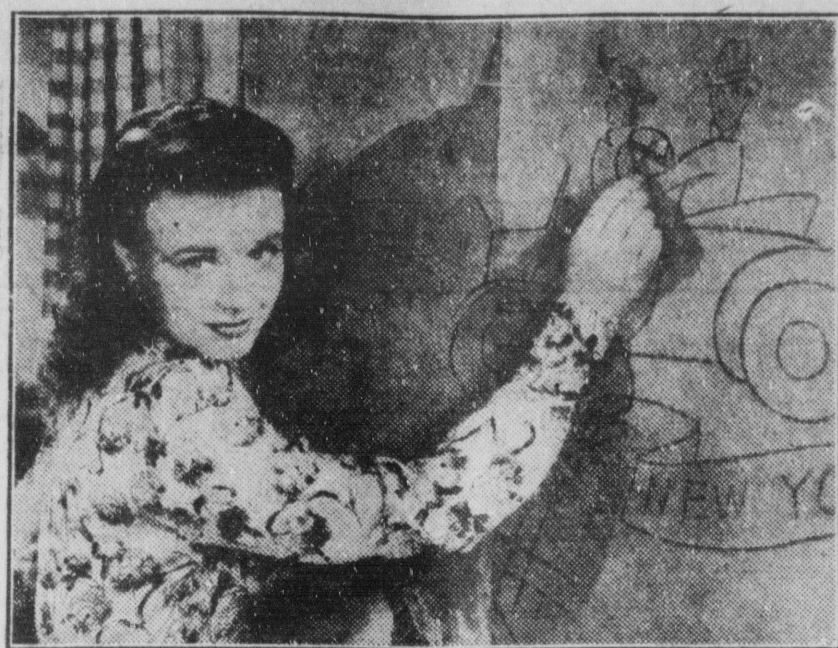

The funeral will be Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the Church of Christ in Christian Union, the Rev. O. L. Ferguson officiating with burial in Forest Cemetery by M. S. Rinehart.

ILLNESS DELAYS DAMAGE SUIT SET FOR HEARING

A $2,500 auto damage suit between Mrs. Iris Martindale, Deer Creek Township, and David Goldschmidt, West Main Street, scheduled to be heard before a jury Monday, was postponed because of the illness of Mrs. Charles Gerhardt, East Mound Street, Mr. Gerhardt being an attorney in the case.

No jury trials are scheduled until after Pumpkin Show, Judge Meeker Terwilliger said Monday.

Also surviving are six children, Gene, Robert, Marjorie, Zola, Ola and Charles, all of Circleville, and Mrs. Robert Goodchild of Athens.

The funeral will be held in El Paso.

NAZIS BEGIN TO MOVE CHILDREN

tions were not necessary, authoritative quarters said, since there has been no indication anywhere of the intended use of poison gas. It was expected that Berlin's industrial north, northwest and southeast areas would take the greatest interest in the plan for optional evacuation of children.

These sections of the city not only contain the greatest number of children, but also the poorer groups living in the capital.

Effective at Once
The offer is effective in Berlin immediately.

At the same time it was announced that eight British planes were shot down in air combats that followed German armed reconnaissance flights over the southeast coast of England this morning. Two German planes are missing, this statement said.

While Berliners were in shelters during the early morning hours there was no anti-aircraft fire or aerial activity in the immediate region of the capital. An official announcement said:

"British planes last night flew over western Germany and a few penetrated as far as central Germany and the vicinity of Berlin, but without reaching the capital."

One British plane was shot down in western Germany before midnight, it was claimed.

Later it was announced that in aid last night and the previous night on the British Isles German bombs hit the Rolls Royce engine works at Derby, causing heavy explosions and wrecking workshops.

Numerous explosions and fires were seen after German bombers attacked Edinburgh on Saturday night and Sunday morning, the announcement said, adding oil tanks and munition plants were believed to have been hit.

Important English military objectives were attacked yesterday, it was announced. Ports on the English south and east coasts were bombed as well as docks on the lower Thames River and the Tilbury docks, where new fires were ignited, German authorities said.

Convoy Scattered
In addition, it was announced, a strongly escorted convoy was scattered off the English east coast and an armament factory in the English midlands was bombed.

CITY PLANNING

CHICAGO—Urging small cities to follow the example of large ones in adopting long-range municipal plans, the National Consumers Tax Commission cites the case of Kenosha, Wis., in the 50,000-75,000 population bracket. It has eliminated 15 grade crossings, modernized its transit system, built a civic center and restored a blighted industrial area while reducing taxes—a result of intelligent city planning.

RUSSIA, SPAIN TO ENTER AXIS?

that Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop plans to fly to Moscow shortly for a conference with Premier and Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov of the Soviet Union. German quarters said it would be the "greatest political triumph" if Russia joined the tripartite Italo-German-Japanese military pact.

Britain will be given a "last chance," it was said, to accept a compromise peace plan reassigning territories and zones of influence in Africa. This arrangement will be drafted while Suer is in Rome.

For the present, it was emphasized, there are no plans for immediate Spanish acquiescence to a military pact. But Virginio Gayda, Premier Mussolini's authoritative editor, made clear in the Giornale d'Italia today that Britain will soon be confronted with the possibility of Spanish alliance with the axis.

"During their talks in Berlin," Gayda wrote, "Ciano, Von Ribbentrop and Suer fully clarified their positions and intentions. The unified plans of their three nations were coordinated."

Anti-Draft

SPARR Hull, above, Pittsburg school teacher, has been suspended pending investigation of his connection with an alleged "school" to help pacifists avoid the draft. Hull was quoted as saying he would prefer going to a concentration camp to bearing arms.

ONE-YEAR ENLISTMENTS IN ARMY GET SUPPORT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Rep. J. Harry McGregor (R) Ohio today, in a letter to Secretary of War Stimson, demanded an answer to reports that the army is refusing to accept one-year enlistments despite specific provision for the limited term in the Draft Act.

"One of the reasons why many members voted against the conscription bill was a belief that if one-year enlistments were permitted an ample number of men could be obtained for the army without disturbing traditions," said McGregor.

"The rush to enlist in many cities is evidence of what could have been done in raising volunteers if a real drive had been made and the necessities of the situation impressed on young men."

ITALIANS IN NORTH AFRICA ASK ADDITIONAL SUPPLIES

LONDON, Sept. 30.—Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, Italian commander-in-chief in North Africa, has appealed to Rome for additional armored equipment in the knowledge his drive through Egypt will soon bring him up against strong British defense lines, it was reported in London today.

The Italian advance, according to British authorities, has been a "slow, simple but labored" affair, in which the bulk of Italian colonial forces have been pushed forward about five miles a day.

Civil Aeronautics Division
Places Circleville On Defense Program

NO DETAILS DISCLOSED

Many Other Cities Share In Big Pot Established For Many Landing Fields

Circleville will be the scene of an $85,000 federal airport project under a plan devised by the Civil Aeronautics Authority as part of the general defense scheme.

The national congress has appropriated $15,780,300 to be spent in Ohio. This is a part of the $500,000,000 national program.

No other details were announced by the CAA concerning the Pickaway County project than the amount set aside for the work. It is probable, local authorities point out, that no definite announcements will be made until the program gets in full swing. The larger and more important centers are expected to receive the first actual construction jobs.

Some other cities to be listed for work include Athens, $202,600; Chillicothe, $226,100; Delaware, $231,600; Hillsboro, $83,000; Lancaster, $161,800; Logan, $93,000; Marysville, $63,800; Marietta, $251,600; New Lexington, $73,000; Portsmouth, $587,000; Washington C. H., $125,000; Wilmington, $48,000.

Circleville officials have pointed out that airport work might be conducted on the property north of the city between the N. & W. and C. & O. railroads where the Circleville chapter of the National Aeronautic Association once started construction of an airport under federal approval. This land has already been graded and tilled and little work would be needed to get it into condition.

WILLKIE'S TOUR THROUGH STATE HAS G. O. P. BUSY

COLUMBUS, Sept. 30—State political news was relegated to the background today as Republican state officials and party leaders prepared for Wendell L. Willkie's presidential campaign dash across Ohio.

While Governor Bricker and former Gov. Martin L. Davey continued their gubernatorial campaign barrage by radio, interest was focused on Willkie's debut in the state as a presidential candidate Wednesday.

Thousands of Republicans from southern and central Ohio are expected to travel north that day to hear Willkie speak either in Toledo, Cleveland, and Youngstown, where talks are scheduled.

The GOP presidential nominee is to arrive in Toledo at 11:30 a. m. Wednesday for an address in Toledo park. The Willkie train will leave Toledo at 1:30 p. m., and the first stop for 10 minutes will be at Oak Harbor, Ottawa County, at 2:30 p. m.

Arriving at Sandusky at 3:20 p. m., the candidate will greet Republicans there from the rear of the train before departing for Elyria, where a stop is scheduled from 4:30 p. m. to 4:40.

Willkie is due to arrive in Cleveland for the principal speech at 5:15 p. m. There he is to rest for three hours before appearing on the platform in the city's Public Auditorium.

MAN, 70, AUTO VICTIM ON ROSS COUNTY HIGHWAY

CHILlicothe, Sept. 30—Ross County authorities are seeking to identify a man, aged about 70, who was killed on Route 277, north of the city. He was either sitting in the left lane of traffic or had become ill and had fallen, authorities believe. He was struck by the automobile of Rudolph LeBeau, 49, of Bloomburg, who had been following another car that was able to dodge the man. LeBeau did not see the man in time to evade hitting him.

The man's fingerprints will be sent to federal authorities who will try to identify him.

GROUND SERVICING FOR PLANES BEING TAUGHT

WASHINGTON, C. H., Sept. 30—The auto mechanic department of the Washington C. H. schools has added another important subject for its students. It is ground servicing of airplanes. The ground course is directed by Robert Townsend who studied aviation in Cincinnati and also during his four years in the Marine Corps.

Equipment valued at $10,000 has been turned over to the school by the government. A plane which crashed near the city last summer

FOOTBALL BROADCASTS

A total of eight games has been definitely scheduled and another battle is tentatively on the radio card as WLW warms up for the 1940 football season.

The lineup will take WLW's commentators and engineering crew to pigskin centers throughout the middle west, since the station is again making its own direct broadcasts. Dick Bray, veteran commentator and himself a prominent football official, will be at the microphone for the play-by-play descriptions, and will be accompanied by David Conlon, remote-control engineering expert.

On October 5, WLW will cover the Texas-Indiana tilt at Bloomington, Ind. The following Saturday, October 12, Bray will air a description of the Georgia Tech-Notre Dame fray at South Bend, Ind., and will return to the same stadium the next Saturday, October 19, when the Irish take on Carnegie Tech.

The balance of the air schedule includes Wisconsin vs. Purdue at Lafayette, Ind., October 26; Alabama vs. Kentucky at Lexington, November 2; Georgia Tech vs. Kentucky at Louisville, November 9; Iowa vs. Notre Dame at South Bend, November 16; and Notre Dame vs. Northwestern at Evanston, Ill., November 23.

WORLD SERIES

A play-by-play description of the World Series baseball games will be heard exclusively over the Mutual network and WKRC, Cincinnati, beginning Wednesday, at 1:15 p. m.

The first two games will be played at Crosley Field, Cincinnati, the home grounds of the Cincinnati Reds.

No official announcement has been made as to who the announcers handling the play-by-play accounts will be, but it is expected that "Red" Barber and Bob Elson will be at the microphone.

RADIO BRIEFS

Premiere presentation on "Silver Theatre" which returns to CBS Oct. 6 will star Laurence Olivier. Once again Conrad Nagel will direct and supervise the drama series.

Red Grange, who'll start a twice-a-week series over MBS stations on Friday, when playing for Illinois against Michigan in 1924 handled the ball on five times and scored five touchdowns! His runs were: 95, 67, 56 and 45 yards (first quarter); 15 yards (last quarter!)

In the event Jay Jostyn, who plays the title role in "Mr. District Attorney," goes to Hollywood to appear in the picture version of the NBC series, he'll feel right at home in the cinema city. He broke into radio in Los Angeles and was quite popular there among studio folk.

Helping Harry Salter as a writer on "Song of Your Life" is Eddie Ettinger, formerly scripter for "Mr. District Attorney." Salter, who conducts the NBC series, offers a number of ideas weekly which Ettinger incorporates in the script.

Known to dialers only as an actress, Janet Logan, "Stepmother" star, possesses another talent familiar to parishioners of the Beverly Hills Church. A mezzo soprano, she sings each week in the choir.

Patrick Henry, Thomas Jefferson and George Washington were called respectively "the tongue, the pen and the sword of the revolution."

has also been purchased by the school and is being used in the course.

Senior boys who took part in the auto mechanics department last year are eligible to enroll.

AMBITIOUS SPAIN
JUST what kind of devil's brew Ribbentrop and Ciano have been cooking up is not yet clear, but it is evident that Spanish ambitions are aroused again. The two big-time dictators evidently want General Franco to launch Spain on a new imperial career.
"We have a will to empire," says Franco's newspaper organ. "We affirm that the full history of Spain implies an empire. We demand for Spain a pre-eminent place in Europe. We will not tolerate international isolation or foreign interference.
"With regard to the Hispano-American countries, we will aim at unification of culture, of economic interests and power. Spain claims a pre-eminent place in all common tasks because of her position as the spiritual cradle of the Spanish world."
It sounds grand. But it doesn't greatly impress North Americans, who in the Spanish-American war finished the job of the great liberator Simon Bolivar in stripping from the Spanish Empire the rest of its New World colonies.
Spain once held a large part of the world, and lost it because she looted and misgoverned it instead of developing and enfranchising it as Britain has done with her colonies. And Americans, North, Central and South, certainly don't want Franco at this late date barging in, backed by German and Italian dictators, to upset New World peace and progress.

PRAYER FOR COURAGE
LISTENERS to a recent radio broadcast coming directly from one of London's underground shelters were impressed by the cheer and humor of the people there waiting, as well as by their grim determination to stick it out till Britain won.
Especially touching was the wording of a request made by the minister of the church whose underground crypts were being used. He asked his listeners to say a prayer. He did not ask them to pray that he and the people with him might come out safe with their lives. He asked for no ease, comfort or protection. This is what he said:
"Say a prayer for us, that we may be able to keep our courage and be worthy of the spirit of England!"
The old American conception of a great orator was a man who could tell 'em and sell 'em whether he had anything to say or not, and we're not sure that radio has changed things very much.
The worst thing about political campaigns is the bad advice the experts give the candidates.

WORLD AT A GLANCE . . . . . —By— Charles P. Stewart

"AVIATION," observes George Miller, "is the safest kind of fighting there is."
I'd been thinking otherwise until he spoke. But George is an authority. He was an active participant in the last war. The accompanying picture shows him in uniform. He's somewhat older and a good bit plumper now than he was then. He wasn't in the air service, but he got an earful from practical flyers while in the army, and an earful also from the fellow grounding soldier commentators concerning the comparative risks run by scrappers respectively on terra firma and overhead. Today, as the National Press club's chief bartender in Washington, he has a national and international acquaintance among the scribes who write the world's news. Visiting war correspondents are numerous among the customers he serves drinks to, and he gets a third earful from them whenever war talk is on tap (as it everlastingly is) in the club tap room.
George's story is that these experts all agree—the chaps up in the sky run no such risks as the ones who are swapping shots down on the solid earth underneath.
HARD TO HIT
"You see," he explains, "a terrestrial doughboy (George uses some pretty good language occasionally) can't do much dodging. If somebody gets a bead on him he's muddling sure to get plunked. He's a fixed target, so to speak.

"But a birdman, bouncing around, the way he does, is darned hard to knock over. The 'Archies,' as the English call 'em, waste dozens of shot for every one they score with. To account for an aviator, some other flyer or a ground battery has got to register a direct hit.
"As for a guy down below, if he's shot he's shot. He's a casualty at best. Maybe he's killed dead.
"If an airman's plane is punctured, through, perhaps it isn't put out of business.
"Even if you're shot out of control, you have a fair chance of landing your plane and yourself. Lot of flyers have done it.
"Finally, in an extremity, you can bail out by parachute, with a reasonable prospect of staying alive. Possibly you'll be captured, but that isn't the same thing as being outright croaked."
BLITZKRIEG OF TODAY
George has admit that, in the current blitzkrieg between the Nazis and the British islanders, aviation fatalities have been relatively numerous, as compared with those among surface scrappers.

That, however, he points out, is because the surface belligerents haven't been actually engaged. "If they had been," he asserts, "there would have been a wholesale slaughter. But the list of bumped-off aviators isn't reported to have run up very high.
"Oh, yes. Folks down on earth have been killed off a plenty. That, though, is precisely what I'm arguing. The grounding aggregation catches haves, but the aviators don't suffer so much.
"So aviation is the branch that I'd recommend our boys to try to break into, if they want to be comparatively safe.
"It's supposed to be extra-dan-gerous. It ain't—comparatively."
WE CAN SPARE HIM
George ought to be an invaluable recruit officer for our aviation arm.
He isn't available, however. I think he's above the 35-year conscription limit. Aside from that, he's an indispensable civilian—behind the National Press club bar.
All the same, his comment ought to be extremely consoling to mothers whose sons are ambitious to break into Uncle Sam's military air corps.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN

KNOX HELPED OUST ROBERT
WASHINGTON — Behind the scenes, President Roosevelt appealed to a Republican to oust "Chip Robert" from his job as Secretary of the Democratic National Committee.

The Republican was Frank Knox, Secretary of the Navy, and he acted not only at the secret prompting of the President, but with the enthusiastic approval of National Chairman Ed Flynn.

Roosevelt first wanted to oust Robert in 1939, specifically asked Jim Farley, then National Chairman, that this be done. But Farley, already bitten by the White House bug, did nothing, feared that if Robert was replaced his successor might be hostile to his (Farley's) ambitions.

Roosevelt renewed his request shortly before the national convention, but again Farley ignored it. In fact, it was with Jim's cooperation, that Robert was re-elected. Some National Committeemen claimed afterwards that they understood the re-election was only for one month, to August 17, when Farley stepped out. But according to the minutes of the meeting, under Robert's jurisdiction, the re-election was for a full four-year term.

When Flynn stepped into Farley's place, the ouster screws again were quietly turned on. Flynn wrote Robert a formal letter directing that he reply in writing to various charges regarding government contracts. But when this failed to produce results, Roosevelt intervened personally.

He had a talk with Frank Knox, who sent Chip word to this effect: "As Secretary of the Navy I don't consider it good public policy for you to be engaged in government business while holding a high party office. If you continue in that post the Navy Department will be compelled to draw the line on government contracts to your firm.

This ultimatum apparently turned the trick and Robert resigned. His engineering firm enjoys a good reputation and presumably it will continue to work on government contracts now that Chip has left politics.

NOTE—Leading congressional choice for the National Committee post is Representative Lyndon Johnson of Texas, young, hard-hitting liberal who has the confidence both of Democratic regulars and New Dealers and is a Roosevelt favorite.

MRS. EVIE ROBERT

"Are you going to live in Atlanta, Evie?" asked a friend of blonde and glamorous Mrs. Robert after her husband's resignation was announced.

Mr. Robert is a native of Georgia. "No, we're not going to Atlanta," replied Evie. "That is, not unless they catch up to Chip."

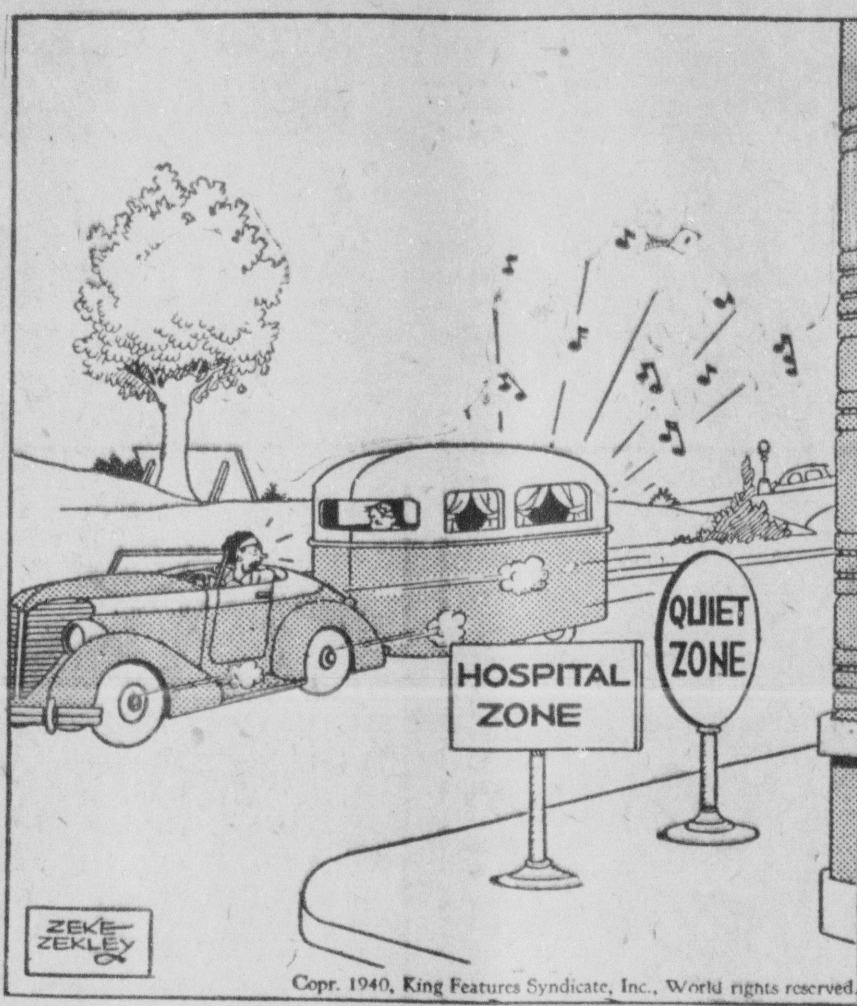

Then she added: "And if they do, Chip built the penitentiary down there and he won't have any trouble getting out."

It is not being shouted from the rooftops, but actually the British defeat at Dakar was just about as much of a defeat for the U. S. A. At first glance this may sound like an extreme statement, but the reason for it is that the Germans had

DIET AND HEALTH

Food For Height
By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

● In these days when the physical stamina of our people must be brought to the highest pitch of efficiency, the science of dietetics is being called upon to guide us. Fortunately within the past two decades the science has made greater strides than in all the previous years of its history.

We consider a sturdy, strong tree and feel that it must have attained its growth and strength from the soil in which it grew, and from the regularity of rain and sunshine. So with human beings. Nothing can take the place of good heredity—and growth is to the greatest degree dependent on that. But given a good ancestry, a favorable environment, the determining factor in growth seems to be the food elements taken in during the early years of life.

Inadequate Diet
We list an inadequate diet as consisting of: cornmeal, milled wheat flour, sweet potatoes, cabbage, collards, fat pork, lard, cane sugar, molasses and vitamin-free casein.
This is, in fact, a standard diet—the Goldberger diet—used in nutritional laboratories to produce food deficiency conditions. It furnishes adequate fuel, energy and building material for the body, but the body will not thrive on it.
The opposite—the adequate diet—consists of milk, eggs, meat, potatoes, whole wheat bread, cereals, green vegetables and fruits.
If certain elements of this sort of diet are pushed striking periods of growth result. In London Dr. Carry Mann made the experiment of observing separate groups of children. Careful records of height, weight and physical fitness were kept of each member of both groups. One group on an adequate basic diet gained 3 8/10 pounds and grew 1 8/10 inches. In the other group on the same basic diet but with the addition of one pint of milk a day, they gained in the same period of time 6 9/10 pounds and grew 2 6/10 inches.

Milk Made the Difference
If observed for a long time the two groups were seen to carry out this tendency regularly and continuously. Dr. Mann wrote, "The casual visitor would never fail to recognize the boys receiving the extra ration of milk. They were obviously more fit."
The menace to the population of Europe in the present crisis consists in the fact that their supplies are deficient in the very foods that increase growth and bodily strength. In our own country experts say that if an adequate diet is maintained for the entire population our consumption of vegetables and citrus fruits should be increased 50 to 75 per cent; butter, milk and eggs 10 to 24 per cent and meat 10 to 30 per cent.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

CHAPTER THIRTY-THREE

Gun found Tommy quite genuinely asleep in the tent. Both had found sleep an excellent substitute for food. Also he had taken both blankets, but Gun was too tired to worry about that, and the alcohol had warmed him up. He went to sleep on the thought that if you really want to enjoy a drink (or anything else, for that matter) the thing to do is to go without for a period.

He woke to a blaze of sunlight, and Tommy's question: "Well, what happened?"
Gun had already decided that he would not let Hazeldene know the actual truth. The airman's nerves were badly strained, and Gun felt that he could not quite rely on his discretion. And if, in a moment of exasperation he were to give any hint that they knew the truth, Gun was convinced it would be all up with them. They would be shot down or have their throats cut without the slightest compunction on the part of their captors.
"First," said Gun, "I've got some cigarettes."

He held some out to Tommy, who grabbed them eagerly.
"That's something, anyway!"
"Secondly, tomorrow evening we get a good, square meal, plus a drink and some smoked. During the course of that you're supposed to get your tongue loosened, and tell me quite a lot about your patent bomb sighting apparatus, which I shall, later, pass on to Trent."

"Better and better," laughed Tommy. "But did you find out anything about them?"
Gun nodded.
"Quite a bit. I can't make out just what the game is, but somebody is going to suffer for it, I imagine. I fancy it will be either the government or the rebel forces in Spain. Anyway, they seem to have been buying up explosives in the raw, and they must have some sort of an arsenal here. . . . And he went on to explain to Tommy all that he had discovered—with the exception of the correspondence which had told him the full strength of the ingenious but dastardly plot.

"What I want to know is," said Tommy, when he had finished, "what's going to happen after I'm supposed to have spilled the beans to you?"

"We must work up some sort of yarn for me to tell Trent. Some details that are all wrong, of course—but not so wrong that he'll spot 'em. And they mustn't be complete—just enough to make him feel he's on the right lines, and let us have another meal. But the important thing, Tommy, is that somehow, by hook or by crook, we've got to get away from here within the next day or so."

Tommy was impressed by the earnestness of Gun's tone, and shot a curious glance at him.

"Why? I mean, what's the enormous rush, anyway? We've been here so long now."

"Oh, just a feeling I've got," answered Gun, realizing he had let Tommy see a little too much. "But I do feel that it's vitally important."

"Maybe you're right," said Tommy. "But I'd like to know how the hell we're going to manage it."

"So would I—but it's got to be done, somehow."

The day passed with the usual dreadful monotony of their days in what Tommy humorously called "the Concentration Camp." Before nightfall they had quite a welcome splash of excitement.

Little as they could see from behind their wire fence, they became aware that unusual activity was going on in the workshops and yard, and presently the gates were opened and a number of men pushed a big plane out into the flat open space which intervened between the wooden and the wire fences.

"Hullo!" exclaimed Gun, "there's our friend the black plane again. They're off on another trip!"
But Tommy shook his head.
"Look again," he said grimly. "That's not another plane. That's

It was announced the last Scioto Valley Tractor car to run through Circleville would be at 12:34 the following Wednesday, enroute to Chillicothe. It was just 25 years after the company opened its waiting room and ticket office on North Court Street.

Hints on Etiquette
Before lighting a cigaret in an airplane or bus where smoking is allowed, it is good manners to ask

"Didn't you hear that voice?" Gun asked.

S.S.I., the missing bomber, faked up and gone native."

Gun followed him, and they "By Jove!" cried Gun. "I believe you're right."

"I darn well know I am," answered Tommy. "Don't worry."

The crew left the plane standing, her nose pointing to the north, and went back into the yard. Shortly afterward they reappeared, this time pushing out another machine.

"There you are," said Tommy. "There's our old friend again."

And so it was.

Men were busy about the planes until darkness fell, and Gun and Tommy cursed because they could see no more. They had, for the moment, even forgotten their ration of bread and water.

They remembered it later, and sat and ate it while they watched faint lights moving about the two planes. The lights were, however, so faint that they could distinguish nothing. Then, just as they had finished eating, there came some confused shouts, which sounded like orders and responses, and then the sudden roar of first one engine and then another.

They listened faintly as first one machine and then the other took off. There came some faint cheering, and then the sound of the engines gradually fading as the two machines zoomed upward and outward into the darkness.

"They're flying together and, so far as I can tell, they're heading north," Tommy announced. "Now, I wonder what the game is—an experimental flight, or what?"

"Who knows," answered Gun. But he had more than a faint idea about their eventual destination, and it was worrying him. He wiped the palms of his hands. The thought of those great, black pieces of mechanism, swooping through the air, dropping death and destruction on two great cities, was almost terrifying to him. And the realization that he was the only man who could stop that outrage, and that he was a helpless prisoner in the hands of the men responsible for it made him feel sick.

Gun had been asleep perhaps for half an hour when he suddenly found himself wide awake once more. He listened for a moment, and then shook Tommy into wakefulness with some difficulty. Tommy was a sound sleeper.

"Hullo! What's wrong now?" demanded that worthy.
"Listen! They're coming back, I think."

"Ah!" said Tommy, and wrig-gle out of the tent.

Gun followed him and they stood erect and looked around the fading ground, and they could see dark figures moving about. They listened intently.

The noise of engines came from the air, rapidly drawing nearer and nearer.

"Hullo!" said Tommy suddenly. "That's queer!"

"They're not coming back at all—at least, not yet. There's only one plane coming, and it's a much smaller one than either of those."

"The sound of the engine drew nearer, and presently even Gun's comparatively unpracticed ear told him that Tommy was right.

Over their heads the plane made two or three circles, and then descended.

"A good landing!" commented Tommy. "That fellow knows his job. I say, they're waking up here, all of a sudden, aren't they? Export and import, what?"

"Yes!" said Gun, vaguely.

As the machine had reached the ground the flares had been instantly extinguished. Now there came the flashing of electric torches, and vague figures showed up instantaneously, and vanished again. It was impossible to recognize anyone. But, by following some of the flashes, Gun could see that a small party of people—four so far as he could make out—were moving toward the living quarters. Presently they disappeared through the small gate.

But before that happened Gun got something of a shock, for suddenly a voice said, extremely loudly, so that even at that distance the words came quite clearly to him:

"Well, thank goodness we're here at last!"

Gun gave a sharp exclamation. "What's the matter?" asked Tommy.

"Didn't you hear that voice?" Gun asked. "There's a woman in the party."

"Well! Women do fly sometimes, you know."

"Yes. But this is a funny business for a woman to be mixed up in."

"Women are employed in all sorts of queer things, in these days, even stockbroking."

"Yes, I suppose they do."

But privately, Gun was thinking that it must be indeed a strange woman who was engaged in a plot for the wholesale murder of hundreds of innocent citizens.

Kenneth Fullen's Bride Elect is Party Honoree

Two Friends Serve As Hostesses At Shower

Mrs. Charles DeVoss of Harrisburg and Mrs. Everett Peters of near Lockbourne were joint hostesses Saturday at a miscellaneous shower honoring Miss Mary Elizabeth Millar of near Ashville, bride-elect of Mr. Kenneth E. Fullen of Cleveland. The evening party was at the home of the hostesses' mother, Mrs. E. L. Runkle of Ashville.

Exquisite roses, gladioli and her garden flowers decorated the Runkle home for the occasion, a color theme of pink and white being carried out in the decorations, the shower arrangement and the attractive appointments of the dessert lunch.

Many beautiful and useful gifts were presented the honor guest.

The guest list included Mrs. Isaac Millar, mother of the bride-elect, Miss Millar, Mrs. Clara Rugh, Mrs. Mary E. Millar, Miss Margaret Millar, Mrs. Emma Salid, Mrs. Sarah Alspaugh, Mrs. Fred Hedges, Mrs. Anna Hedges, Mrs. Russell Hedges, Mrs. J. C. McCord, Mrs. Howard Noecker, Mrs. Walter Hedges, Mrs. L. H. Hill of Kingston and Mrs. Wilson Burns of Canal Winchester.

Miss Dountz Honored

Miss Chestora Dountz of Orient was complimented Thursday evening when Mrs. Ralph Francis and Mrs. Raymond Hackney of Commercial Point entertained a group of 20 friends at a bridge party at the Francis home.

Guests included Mrs. Ralph Hutchins, Mrs. Virgil Hill, Mrs. Clarence Shipley, Mrs. William Kegg, Mrs. Harold Beavers, Mrs. Earl Trego, Mrs. Alfred Finch, Mrs. Treat Keller, Mrs. Ethel Fortune, Mrs. Orville Raser, Mrs. Carmel Raser, Mrs. Orrin Lawless, Mrs. Ben Grace, Mrs. Edward Hudson, Mrs. Bauer Prushing, Mrs. Orville Dountz, Miss Elizabeth Dennis, Miss Ethel Belle Trego and Miss Helen Williams.

Miss Dountz shared honors Saturday afternoon with Miss Kathryn Thompson of Columbus when Miss Katherine Hughes and Mrs. Merrill Sherburn entertained with a tea and miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Sherburn's mother, Mrs. Charles Roubesh, Columbus.

Sunday Marriage Announced

An abundance of garden flowers decorated the country home of Miss Helen Black Anderson and Miss Anna Black as they entertained with an early pre-nuptial breakfast Sunday at their home in Saltcreek Township, honoring Miss Doris Collison and Mr. Kenneth Davis. A lovely bride's cake centered the table set with beautiful pieces of old Haviland china.

After the breakfast, Miss Collison and Mr. Davis motored to Vanceburg, Ky., where they were united in marriage by the Rev. G. W. Hoffman in the parsonage of the Methodist church.

The bride is a graduate of Amanda high school and for the last five years has resided with Mrs. Anderson and Miss Black.

Mr. Davis is a graduate of Circleville High School and of Coyne Electrical School of Chicago, Ill. He is a sergeant of the Circleville Field Artillery unit of the Ohio National Guard.

Mr. Davis and his bride will not establish their home until his year of military training is completed.

Pickaway County WCTU

The Pickaway County Women's Christian Temperance Union met Friday at the United Brethren Church for its fiftieth annual convention. Mrs. E. L. Price, president for 20 years, was in the chair and declined to serve as president

Black Ensemble

A black coat with black chenille epaulets distinguishes Virginia Grey's one piece coat with military gild buttons. It's high round neckline is collarless and the actress wears it over an afternoon gown of black crepe. Her large black felt beret has a royal blue feather slit through the front lacing. Black patent shoes, a bag matching her costume, and beige slip-on gloves complete the dressy ensemble which Miss Grey wears.

Dreisbach, Kenneth Wright, Harold and Paul Schein, Ralph and Edward Carter, William Carpenter, Russell Pyle and Don Cook.

Wayne P.-T. A.

The Wayne Township Parent-Teacher Association conducted its regular meeting Friday evening with Mrs. Ross Hamilton, the new president, in charge.

Following the business meeting an excellent program was offered including:

Song "Playmates" by third and fourth grades, the same group then participating in a folk dance. Vocal duet, "Church in the Wildwood", Helen Dean and Freda Tootle.

Song, "Ten Little Indians", first and second grades.

Vocal duet, "Sierra Sue", Jean Campbell and Patsy Metzger. Piano solo, "Weary Traveler", Elizabeth Downing.

The refreshments were served by Mrs. Walter Downing, Mrs. Beryl Stevenson and Miss Campbell.

The next meeting will be a booster affair, each old member being required to take a new member. It will be conducted October 25. The program will include a 4-H achievement report by William Barthelmas, Sarah May and Jane Metzger.

Hosts at Supper

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Younklin of 499 Warren Avenue, Columbus, were hosts at supper, Sunday, the following guests enjoying the delightful affair: Mr. and Mrs. Turney Pontius, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pontius and daughter, Barbara, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Dunkle and son, Jerry Lee, of the Circleville vicinity in addition to several from Columbus.

Homecoming Conducted

About 300 guests from Chillicothe, Columbus, Mowestown, Urbana, Akron, Laurelville, Hallsville and the Circleville community gathered at Morris Chapel Sunday for the annual homecoming and basket dinner.

The Rev. Mr. Weir, a former pastor of the church, spoke during the morning service, the Rev. H. H. Davis delivering the address during the afternoon. Special music and short talks were included in the program.

Women's Bible Class

The Women's Bible Class of the Presbyterian Church will meet at 2:30 p. m. Friday at the home of Miss Eva Black, South Washington Street.

St. Philip's Meeting

The ladies of St. Philip's Church will have a covered dish dinner at 6 p. m. Wednesday, October 2, in the parish house. Only the ladies of the church are invited for the affair which will be followed by a guild meeting.

Family Reunion

The Lindsey family reunion was held Sunday at the Stoutsville campground, Mrs. J. J. Rooney of East Union Street being elected president of the association for the coming year. Others chosen during the business meeting were Sterling Hitler, vice president; Mrs. Fred Colville, secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. Thomas Lindsey Hitler, 89, was the oldest of the 75 guests present. She interested members of the family with her stories of family affairs which had taken place many years ago. A social afternoon followed the bounteous basket dinner.

It was decided that the 1941 reunion would be the second Sunday in September at the Robtown parish house.

Mrs. Trego Hostess

Mrs. Theodosia Trego of Williamsport was hostess Sunday at a noon dinner, the guests being served at one large and two small tables. An arrangement of zinnias and cosmos centered the large table, cosmos and petunias of many shades being used on each of the small ones.

Mrs. Trego's guests included Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Coffman, Miss Hortense and Miss Ada Stroud of Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. George Ingman, daughters Edna and Helen, of Mt. Sterling; Mr. and Mrs. Bert Alspaugh, Canal Winchester; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Trego, Bob and Jack Trego, Newell McNeal, Miss Waneta McNeal and Sessel Trego of Williamsport.

Pickaway County Garden Club

Those assisting Mrs. Chester Valentine for the Friday meeting of the Pickaway County Garden Club will be Miss Ruth Morris, Mrs. H. E. Betz, Mrs. Charles Hugsley, Miss Mary Hulise and Henry Swearingen, instead of the members of the group announced previously.

Mr. Barnes Hosts

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Barnes of South Washington Street were hosts at a surprise birthday dinner Sunday at their home, the affair being arranged in honor of the birthday anniversary of Jesse Turner, father of Mrs. Barnes.

The guests were Mrs. George E. Caskey, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Fisher, Mrs. Helen G. Wolf of the Circleville community and Mrs. Mary Smith of Dayton.

Mr. Turner received several choice gifts.

Magie Sewing Club

Members of the Magie Sewing Club will meet Thursday at 2 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Gayle Wolf of Pleasant Street.

Lutheran Women's Bible Class

The Lutheran Women's Bible Class will meet Tuesday at 7 p. m. at the parish house.

Handicraft Club

The Jackson Handicraft Club will meet at 7:30 p. m. Thursday in the auditorium of Jackson Township School.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kraum of Springfield were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harley B. Colwell of North Court Street.

Personals

Mrs. Anna Ritt, Miss Mildred Ritt and Mrs. J. M. Morris of Circleville and Miss Ruth Butler of Columbus left Sunday for a trip to Washington, D. C., New York City and Boston.

Mrs. Ray Davis of Montclair Avenue, state chairman of the Department of Education of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs, will go to Ravenna Tuesday where she will be a guest speaker at the Northeast District Conference.

Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Brown of New Philadelphia spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Bryce Briggs of North Scioto Street. Miss Benadine Yates, who had spent a few days at the Brown home, returned with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shride of Marlton were hosts at dinner Sunday for Mr. and Mrs. George Butts, Mr. and Mrs. Dorwin Butts and daughters Marilyn Jean, Betty and Janet, of Delaware.

Mr. and Mrs. Turney Kraft and family, Mr. and Mrs. Creation Kraft and family of Washington Township and Mrs. Harry Kraft of Circleville spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Omer Kraft of Sycamore.

WALKER NEEDS VICTORY TO OBTAIN BAER MATCH

COLUMBUS, Sept. 30—With a possible shot at Max Baer as the winner's reward, Patsy Perroni, Canton Italian ring stylist, tonight was to attempt to lift the Ohio Heavyweight boxing crown from the dusky brow of Jack "Buddy" Walker, Columbus, over a ten-round route.

Walker will be out to avenge the only blemish on his record—the draw with Perroni in April. Walker is expected to weigh in at about 193 pounds, a half-dozen more than Perroni.

No opponent was found for Jimmy Reeves, Cleveland middleweight, who had been signed to appear in a co-feature on the card.

BULLS WIN, 51-0

COLUMBUS, Sept. 30—Columbus professional football fans rubbed their hands in delight today at the prospect of things to come after seeing the Columbus Bulls overwhelm the St. Louis Gunners, 51-0, in an exhibition game. Four of the six Bull touchdowns resulted from lateral or forward passes.

and action, skillful, ingenious, romantic and adventurous.

COLONELS NEED SINGLE GAME TO CLAIM TITLE

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 30—The Louisville Colonels today were within one game of duplicating their feat of 1939—winning the right to represent the American Association in the Little World Series after finishing the regular season in fourth place.

The Colonels yesterday eked out a ninth-inning, 1 to 0 victory over the Champion Kansas City Blues to give themselves a three-games-to-two advantage. Every game in the series has been decided by one run.

The Colonels got only one hit off Don Hendrickson until the ninth. Then, however, Chet Morgan doubled, Artie Parks walked, and Ernie Andres singled home the game's only marker.

Charley Wagner racked up his 12th straight win for the Colonels by allowing only six scattered singles.

HARLEY RECALLED

COLUMBUS, Sept. 30—Twenty-five years ago today, Chic Harley, Ohio State's football immortal, reported for freshman practice. He scored a 60-yard touchdown against the varsity in his first appearance.

SCHOOL BAND TO JOIN ELEVEN IN GREENFIELD

In an effort to repay a gesture of sportsmanship shown last year, Circleville High School's newly-uniformed band will travel to Greenfield Friday evening. Greenfield brought its musical organization to Circleville last year.

The question of transportation is an important one, and any persons who will have room in their automobiles are asked to contact Dan McClain at the Gas Company or C. F. Zaenglein at the high school.

About This And That In Many Sports

Circleville fans are convinced that the high school is represented by two football teams: one played against West Jefferson and the other against Lancaster.

The fans are unanimous in their declarations that they want no more of the eleven that faced West Jefferson, but will take big doses of the one that stopped the mighty Gale. . . . And here's another note: Crepe-hangers who are moving through the halls and classrooms of the high school had better change their tunes. . . .

It's Greenfield McClain this week on the McClain field and a battle is certain. . . . Red Armstrong again has a brilliant team led by Eldon Newland, who does everything in the book, and does it well. . . .

Since Assistant Coach Tom Armstrong saw Greenfield and London play Friday evening the Tigers are expected to map a defense that will keep Newland boxed in. . . . The McClain lads are bigger and much better than last year and will have the advantage of playing on their home lot. . . . Newland will be stopped, and definitely, if the Tiger line plays as it did last week. . . .

Read with interest the yarn in a capital city sheet Sunday that said Massillon High School believes in purity and develops its grid stock in Junior High. . . . That may be the case now, but this column can name four athletes who moved into Massillon to participate in athletics, and the moving was done solely because they were outstanding performers on the grid. . . . This was not in the last few years, coming along about the 1923-26 era, and Massillon was just about as tough then as now. . . .

Storm warnings sound from Minneapolis and Ann Arbor, and Ohio State's line, especially at the guards and center, must get much tougher if the Bucks are to repeat their "slide-in-backwards" Big Ten championship this year. . . . State's passing attack was a honey, end play and tackle play excellent, backfield blocking just fair, punting outstanding, and generalship the best in years. BUT the center of the forward wall did not show championship class. . . .

Some statistics published in the Lancaster newspaper on last Friday's game show: yards gained by rushing, Lancaster, 145; Circleville, 123; yards lost by rushing, Lancaster, 32; Circleville, 21; average of punts, Lancaster, 26; Circleville, 35.6. . . . And the Eagle-Gazette was liberal with its praise of the Red and Black, especially in the mid-line area where Brown, Martin and Crawford held forth. . . .

And here's a prosperity note: Immense crowds at the first three games on the Tiger schedule have pulled the high school athletic treasury out of the red for the first time in a good many years. . . . Figures aren't available, but it's a fact. . . .

nals and piled up a 31 to 6 victory. Cecil Isbell, former Purdue Boilermaker, was the chief cog in the Packers' attack, scoring two touchdowns himself and throwing a 35-yard pass to Don Hutson for another to put Green Bay back, temporarily at least, in first place in the Western division.

Then to jumble up things, the Detroit Lions, who showed little in losing one and tying one, upset the hitherto unbeaten and untied Cleveland Rams, 6 to 0. Whizzer White registered the only score of the game by galloping 20 yards for a touchdown.

Dr. Sutherland brought his Brooklyn Dodgers back to his home town, Pittsburgh, and showed the folk, who remember his powerful Pitt Panthers, that he hasn't been taken in by the big city's razzmatazz. The Dodgers used all ground plays to rumble over the Steelers, who were unbeaten but tied twice, 10 to 3.

Several Of Country's Teams Show Strength

By Pat Robinson

NEW YORK, Sept. 30—There were two or three eye-opening surprises—but hardly a true upset—as most of the major football teams swung into action Saturday.

The No. 1 surprise of the day was Wake Forest's 12-0 victory over North Carolina. We prefer to call this a surprise rather than an upset because it was generally known that Wake Forest was loaded this year. The surprise lies in the fact that many did not realize how well it was loaded.

Surprise No. 2 was underrated Washington State's 14-14 stand-off with Southern California. This must have been a terrific shock to the Rose Bowl victors who figured they were headed that way again.

Surprise No. 3 was Minnesota's 19-14 decision over Washington. Granted that Minnesota wooed a few smiles from lady luck, the Gophers still deserve all the credit in the world for taking advantage of the breaks.

With U. C. L. A. already beaten by Southern Methodist, California soundly trounced by Michigan of the Big Ten, 41-0, Washington beaten by Minnesota, also of the Big Ten, and the Rose Bowl champions tied by Washington State, it would appear either that the coast teams have been overrated this year or that teams from other sections are far stronger than the advance dope indicated.

Boston College Strong
Probably the day's best performance was turned in by Boston College which traveled South to hand a 27-7 wallop to mighty Tulane which had looked forward to an unbeaten season. This was no upset. And if there was any surprise it was only in the size of the score and the ease with which it was attained. This B. C. outfit appears to have everything, and may prove to be the outstanding team of the year.

Elsewhere the teams ran pretty much to form. A light but tough and skillful Manhattan team took a heavy St. Bonaventure team, 45-0; N. Y. U. didn't have to uncover much beating P. M. C., 32-6; Carnegie won handily from Geneva, 21-0; Brown looked good trimming Wesleyan, 41-0; Holy Cross showed another powerhouse in its 34-6 decision over Providence; Navy had a tough time with W. & M., 19-0 and another well-loaded outfit, West Virginia, walloped Westminster, 47-0.

Ohio State looked great beating a Pitt team that had no versatility, 30-7; Missouri took a thriller from a surprisingly good St. Louis team, 40-26 and Purdue showed they still have something in taking Butler, 28-0.

In the South a strong Clemson team ran roughshod over Wofford, 26-0; Duke did as expected in beating stubborn V. M. I. 23-0; Tennessee had a 49-0 walkover against Mercer; Vanderbilt won handily from W. & L., 19-0 and Virginia, greatly improved, took Lehigh, 32-0.

The Southwest showed it still has great teams as Texas took Colorado with ease, 39-7; Texas Aggies, using subs, took Texas A. & I., 26-0 and Texas Christian hammered Centenary, 41-6. There are sure to be some surprises in that tough Texas league this year.

In the Far West Oregon State slaughtered Idaho, 41-0; Santa Clara beat a good Utah team, 34-13 and Stanford did all right against San Francisco, 27-0.

Some statistics published in the Lancaster newspaper on last Friday's game show: yards gained by rushing, Lancaster, 145; Circleville, 123; yards lost by rushing, Lancaster, 32; Circleville, 21; average of punts, Lancaster, 26; Circleville, 35.6. . . . ## TIGERS ENTRAIN FOR BIG SERIES WITH OHIO TEAM

Title Play Opens Wednesday In Cincinnati; 100,000 Greet Champions

DETROIT, Sept. 30—Given an uproarious welcome when they returned home from Cleveland after winning the American League pennant, the Detroit Tigers today were to entrain for Cincinnati and Wednesday's opening World Series encounter against the Cincinnati Reds.

More than 100,000 wild eyed fans, who often threatened to get out of control, greeted the Tigers last night when they arrived from the Ohio city after one of the most heated pennant grinds in years.

So great was the crowd at the railroad station, in fact, that it was necessary to hustle the players into a police patrol wagon in order to insure their safe transfer down town where another throng awaited to offer congratulations.

It was a celebration unsurpassed in the motor city since the town went baseball mad in 1934 and 1935, the last times the Tigers took the flag.

Each Presented

After the players finally got downtown, there was an informal reception and each of the Tigers was introduced from a hastily improvised platform. The din was terrific, both from automobile horns and cheers that surpassed anything ever heard in a baseball park.

Twenty-eight strong, the Tigers were to leave for Cincinnati at 3:10 p. m. and arrive in the Ohio river city at 9:10 p. m.

DETROIT, Sept. 30—Only five Tiger players who helped give Detroit its world's baseball championship in 1935 will be on hand when the club opens its 1940 effort Wednesday against the Reds at Cincinnati—and only four of them will be in the lineup at any one time.

Charley Gehringer, perennial Tiger second baseman, will be back at his old post and hitting in third place, just as he did five years ago against the Chicago Cubs.

Hank Greenberg, likewise, will be hitting in his old cleanup spot, but on defense will be patrolling left field instead of cavorting at first base.

Pete Fox will be back in right field, but will be batting in seventh place, rather than the eighth slot, assigned to him in 1935.

And Schoolboy Rowe and Tommy Bridges will take their regular turns on the mound against the Reds, just as they did against the Chicago Cubs.

Baker Coach Then
Del Baker, now manager of the Tigers, will be stationed on third base, just as he was when a Tiger coach under Mickey Cochrane, attempting to steal signals of the opposition; encouraging his players with his high, barking voice, and flashing light signals for the hit-and-run, the double steal or the squeeze play.

Gone is Cochrane, old fighting "Black Mike," who piloted the Tigers to the championship and scored the winning run in the ninth inning of the sixth game.

Gone too is Leon Goslin, the goose who laid the golden egg by dropping a single into short right field which scored his boss from second with the run which meant the title.

Gone are Jo-Jo White, Marvin Owen, Billy Rogell, Gee Walker, Flea Clifton, General Alvin Crowder, Elden Auker and other heroes of that 1935 victory.

DOYLE ON TIGER TEAM AS WORLD SERIES LOOMS

NEW YORK, Sept. 30—The Detroit Tigers were 7 to 10 favorites to cop the World Series on the books of Broadway's Betting Commissioner Jack Doyle today. Quotations on the opening game were 4 to 5 against both the Tigers and the Cincinnati Reds.

The figures against the Tigers coping four straight games were 7 to 1 as compared with 8 to 1 against Cincinnati last year.

Manager Bill McKeechne still refused to name his mound choice for the World Series opener Wednesday, but Paul Derringer was believed to be in line for the assignment, with Walter the alternative.

RECORD OF BRICKER ADMINISTRATION ATTACKED BY MARTIN DAVEY

SCHOOLS, ROADS, AGED SUFFERING, AVERS NOMINEE

All Phases Of Republican's Tenure Of Office Played In Local Address

DUNLAVY, CLAYPOOL TALK

Large Crowd Present During Democratic Rally At Courthouse

Martin L. Davey, Democratic candidate for governor, attacked nearly every phase of Governor Bricker's administration as he spoke for nearly an hour and a half Saturday afternoon from the Court House plaza. He blasted away at the present governor's maintenance of state highways, labeled his economy measures as "petty," accused him of "robbing" the schools of Ohio of six and a half million dollars and of "chiseling from the Old Age Pensioners."

The former governor arrived in Circleville shortly after three o'clock Saturday afternoon to participate in the Democratic rally.

Pickaway County Democratic Chairman Carl C. Leist opened the program by introducing the county Democratic candidates. Congressman Harold K. Claypool spoke briefly to the audience lining both sides of South Court Street in front of the Court House and crowding around the Court House steps.

Claypool said he favored the federal government's farm program and the extension of rural electrification lines. He stated that he had favored the conscription bill as long as it contained the 60-day clause, but voted against it after the amendment had been taken out. He favored national defense and voted for it, he said.

Dunlavy Speaks

Dennis Dunlavy, Democratic candidate for Supreme Court Judge, a member of the Davey party, praised the New Deal as "humanitarian" and discussed such federal projects as the Home Owners Loan and Crop Insurance. He accused Wendell Willkie, Republican candidate for President, as favoring big business, maintaining that he placed property rights above personal rights. He attacked Governor Bricker's civil service policy, stating that "there is no more civil service in Columbus than there is in the Russian army."

As Davey appeared from the Court House door, a cheer went up from the Democrats and the Adelpi band began to play "Beautiful Ohio."

Smiling, the former governor made a few preliminary remarks about the "glorious meetings" he had had everywhere, and then settled down to the serious business of playing the Bricker administration.

He attacked the Bricker economy as "petty," saying, "We have heard much of economy in state government in Ohio during the last year and eight months. The present governor went to New York, stood before the ticket window and paid 75 cents of his own money to buy a ticket into the World's Fair. The photographers took his picture and the word came back to Ohio that the governor had saved the people of this great state 75 cents."

"Seventy-five cents; what a saving! How much does that mean to every man, woman and child in Ohio? When I go to a fair as your governor you will pay my way into it. I won't try to save you seventy-five cents."

Saving When It Counts

"But I did save you fifteen million of dollars by vetoing from the budgets of state institutions and departments amounts which were not necessary for operations. That's two and one half times more in votes than all of the other governors in Ohio put together. I believe in saving where it counts—not in saving peanut shells."

And then he added "To be very frank about it, Ohio hasn't had a governor for a year and eight months."

Continuing his attack on Bricker's economy, Davey accused the governor last winter of sending large quantities of food to starving ducks in the North and at the

Steps Taken To Block Draft-Dodging Efforts

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30—The State Department reportedly is refusing passports to men of conscription age to prevent draft-dogers from fleeing the country, it was learned today.

This information was gained by International News Service simultaneous with disclosure that President Roosevelt has signed an executive order naming Lt. Col. Lewis B. Hershey temporary director of the national draft board.

President Roosevelt took the step, it was said, in order that registration of the nation's 16,500,000 men of draft age (21 to 35, inclusive) could proceed without delay on October 16—just 16 days hence.

Meanwhile, it was learned that the State Department is refusing to issue passports to men of conscription age unless unusual grounds for leaving the country are presented.

While the department was slightly damaged by fire Saturday afternoon at 3:10.

The alarm was turned in by Jack Kelley, East Franklin Street, who noticed smoke coming from the garage as he passed.

Firemen said young Kelly had tried to notify Skinner of the fire, but that a dog kept him away from the house.

Cause of the fire was unknown.

FORMER MAYOR MAY WIN COUNTY BENCH POSITION

COLUMBUS, Sept. 30 — Former Columbus Mayor Myron B. Gessaman today was reported to be in line for appointment to a municipal judgeship.

Governor Bricker was believed ready to name Franklin County Common Pleas Judge Edward C. Turner to the supreme court vacancy created by the death of Judge George S. Myers. The common pleas court vacancy then would be filled, it was said, by the elevation of Municipal Judge Joseph M. Clifford, with Gessaman to replace Clifford. The former mayor would serve until after the 1941 November elections.

MANY WITHOUT LICENSES AS OHIO DEADLINE NEARS

COLUMBUS, Sept. 30 — With midnight tonight the deadline for getting new drivers' licenses, Cylon W. Wallace, state registrar of motor vehicles, today instructed police officers throughout Ohio to begin checking motorists Tuesday. The registrar said that 675,000 drivers have not secured their permits.

same time was "chiseling from the poor folk on relief." Of the present governor he said "He broke all his promises to the Old Age Pensioners, which he made in his campaign letter. He got scared about his broken promises and his chiseling on the old folk, so he called a special session of the legislature for the relief of Bricker. He raised the limit that could be paid, but he did not raise the pensions. That was a cruel and crafty trick, but he didn't fool anyone."

Passing on to the school question, Davey said that his administration had left six and one half million dollars in the school fund, which Bricker had transferred to his own General Fund, thereby robbing the schools of Ohio of six and a half million dollars. He accused Bricker of passing out 100,000 free passes to school children for the State Fair, and at the same time permitting them to see "naughty shows" at the fair's midway.

Invited to Inauguration

Concerning state highways, Davey said that he stood for good maintenance, reconstruction, and the building of branch roads, and claimed that the "hot mix" scandal about his administration had been started by the cement trust because state contracts had not called for great quantities of cement in road construction. Davey ended his speech by inviting the people of Pickaway County to his next inauguration.

Democratic candidates introduced during the rally included Harry B. Welch, candidate for representative to the general assembly; Meeker Tervilliger for Common Pleas Judge; Charles Radcliff for county sheriff; Robert Colville for county treasurer; Wayne Hoover and John Keller for county commissioners; A. L. Wilder, for clerk of courts; Dr. E. L. Montgomery for county engineer; George Morris for state senator and Mrs. Florence Campbell for county recorder.

No matter how modest the cost every service receives the same careful attention.

planned to use Dakar as a jumping-off air base to South America.

For several weeks they had been working feverishly in cooperation with the Vichy Government of France to improve air facilities there, and had concentrated twenty large transport planes capable of making the transatlantic flight to Brazil. Supposedly these transport planes were to carry German merchandise being sold to South America. However, they are the same type of plane which landed troops in Norway.

One glance at the map will show why Dakar is so important to the United States and the Monroe Doctrine. It is on the bulge of Africa which juts out farthest toward the bulge of Brazil. An air plane flight between Dakar and Natal takes about half the time of an airplane flight from New York to Brazil.

U. S. TIN LETTERS

The Merry-Go-Round has received an impressive number of letters from persons who believe that the tin problem can be solved by mining tin ore in the United States. They describe rich tin deposits in South Carolina, South Dakota, California, and Alaska.

The answer is that the Government is very skeptical about such resources. Bureau of Mines says: "The outlook for U. S. production of tin is dismal. Even with a price of a dollar a pound (which is twice the present market price) we couldn't expect more than 550 tons in the first year, and 3,000 tons in the third year. Two-thirds of this would come from Alaska."

This is a trifling amount compared with the U. S. requirement of 75,000 tons a year.

Meantime, both the Bureau of Mines and the Geological Survey are examining all prospective tin deposits. New funds for expanding this service have just been made available by Congress. But they state that "thus far we have not been able to locate any real source."

TANGEMAN RITES HELD

COLUMBUS, Sept. 30—Funeral services were to be held in Columbus today for Theodore H. Tangeman, 62, state commerce director under Governor George White, who died at his home after a two years' illness. Burial will be at Wapakoneta. Tangeman, a native of New Bremen, retired in 1938 after years in Democratic state politics.

Ashville District Busy Preparing for Festival

By S. D. Fridley
Ashville, Phone 79

While he wasn't telling much about it, Bill Duvall said enough to lead us to believe that the exhibition tables for pumpkin and squash at the now soon Pumpkin Show, will not be entirely bare and invited us to look 'em over and see for ourselves one of the things that Madison Township sugar-land soil can grow and do a good job of it. And the Coon Brothers of Walnut, while considerably "burnt out", we are guessing will be around somewhere when the pumpkin ribbons are being placed.

George Gatten, Madison too, early in the growing season crossed and double-crossed his cabbage plants to produce a more prolific strain and now has just that, one stalk with fourteen and other with eight perfect heads. These, if all goes well for the next couple of weeks will be a part of the Pumpkin Show exhibit, he told us.

Saturday was a busy one, but today will likely be the big one at Clyde Brinker's auto drivers' certificate permits. More than a thousand were issued last year.

Today is "free fly day" on the farm and the several farmers we talked with Saturday will be drilling in the seed. The "new fangled" seeder, as we had named it a couple of years ago for the lack of a better name, is yet in use and has proven itself equal to the others and said to be a grain saver. Here and there over the county corn pickers will soon be at work. Glenn Hay, who operates a picker, doing commercial work, said it would be a couple of weeks yet before corn would be fit to market or put into storage.

Ashville High School News

Among the prizes received by Juniors for selling magazines were lamps, football and basketball pins, compass, knives, and purses.

Mary Truitt, a sophomore of Ashville High School, plans to move to Columbus in the near future. She will attend Central High School there.

The Freshman Class held a party Wednesday evening for Leon and Mildred Kibbee, who moved to Pickerington Friday. Various games were played and refreshments of ice cream, cookies, nuts, and orange-ade were served.

The Student council, composed of four seniors, three juniors, two sophomores, and one freshman, and three teacher advisers held its organization meeting Thursday, September 23, after school.

The officers for 1940-41 were elected and prospects for the year were discussed. A committee was appointed to organize a money-making project to pay off a $10 deficit in the treasury incurred last year in making dancing lessons available for members of Ashville school. A copy of the purposes, functions, and constitution of the newly formed council is to be put in each pupils and teachers hands. The following officers were elected: Bill Cloud, president; Mary Jane Higley, vice-president; Virginia Vause, secretary.

The first meeting of the Ashville-Harrison P.T.A. was held Thursday night, September 26, at 8 p. m. The main item of business was a discussion of the P.T.A. sponsoring school lunches—nothing definite was decided—but a committee was appointed to study the thing further. A motion was carried to buy more silverware for the school lunchrooms. A membership drive is being carried out. The theme of the year is "Everyday Living in a Modern World." Officers of the Association for 1940-41 include the following: President, Mr. H. E. Swayer; Vice-president, Mrs. S. F. Hinkle; Secretary, Miss

The High School music department gave a joint assembly program for the High School students, Friday afternoon, at 1:00 p. m.

The Ashville High School Softball team was a guest of Perry Township High School at Atlanta, Thursday, and returned home after winning a close one, 8 to 7. After building up an 8 to 0 lead, Donaldson, the Ashville pitcher, weakened as did his support from the field. However, both stayed off a desperate last inning rally in time to cut the losers off with but seven runs.

Among the football fans from Ashville who witnessed the Ohio State victory over Pittsburgh were Mr. and Mrs. Roger Hedges, Harry Margulis, Dr. Cromley and wife, N. E. Murphy and Ed Irwin.

Many interested spectators from this community attended the football game at the county seat last Friday night and all were amazed at the loyal stand made by the Red and Black against the big Lancaster squad. Former Ashvilleite, Joe Staley, no doubt is one of the factors in getting our town's interest in Circleville football. Another is the fact that night football is an attractive and novel sport.

An honest-to-goodness "feed" was given the Community Clubbers the other night and those who missed out on it, really missed something. Fried chicken, and all the "sides" comprised the meal and it goes without saying that it was enjoyed by all. Another meeting with an equally good dinner is in prospect two weeks hence.

Nolan Murphy, treasurer of the Ashville Community Club, gave the following facts in regard to the financial standing of the organization: Receipts of the 4th of July Celebration, $1315.51; expenses, $1001.67. Profit, $313.84; (best individual year since the festival began).

F. D.'S FOREIGN POLICY SCORED BY SOCIALIST

COLUMBUS, Sept. 30—The foreign policy of President Roosevelt stood condemned today by Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for president, as leading to "fascism and imperialism and ultimately war and ruin."

Bidding for write-in votes in Ohio, Thomas declared that this country is as near war as it can go without actually becoming a belligerent.

He labelled the President's policies as "inconsistent to the highest degree," and maintained that conscription had not been proven a necessity "except by assertion."
